

A Message from the Head of School

Dear friends,

As I begin my tenure as Head of School, I am deeply grateful for God's faithfulness to Brookstone over the past 20 years. The Lord gave our founders a vision of a school that would address the educational inequalities in public schools and make a tremendous difference in Charlotte. I was greatly encouraged to read the testimonies of our founders and how the Lord has used their gifts and talents to impact many lives for Jesus Christ.

Our founders' commitment and vision echo Jesus' teaching that those who receive his instructions and "put them into practice is like a wise man who built his house on the rock." (Matthew 7:24) Seeing their vision come to fruition reinforces the importance of integrating Biblical teaching into all that we do, with the goal of providing a solid foundation for our students to grow "in wisdom and in stature and in favor with God and man." (Luke 2:52)

From our humble beginnings in 2001 to our growth to 196 students from kindergarten to eighth grade with a budget of $2.4 million, I am excited to see what the next 20 years hold for Brookstone. And given the challenges our nation is facing today, now more than ever the next generation needs to understand and live out what it means to view themselves and others as image-bearers of God.

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. said, "The whole concept of the imago Dei, as it is expressed in Latin, the 'image of God,' is the idea that all men have something within them that God injected... And this gives him a uniqueness, it gives him worth, it gives him dignity. And we must never forget this as a nation: there are no gradations in the image of God... One day we will learn that."

In the spirit of Dr. King's words, we covet your prayers in the years to come as we seek to realize our expanded vision in Charlotte as a Christ-centered school of excellence, equipping our graduates to successfully engage and impact their generation for Jesus Christ.

God bless you for your amazing support!

Faithfully yours,

John A. Murray

Reflecting on 20 Years of Brookstone

before 1996

Charlotte experiences high illiteracy and drop-out rates among its socio-economically disadvantaged children, perpetuating a cycle of spiritual and economic poverty.

1996

God plants a vision in our founders for a school to serve under-resourced children in Charlotte. They pray and study models of successful urban schools across the U.S.

1998

Brookstone's founders identify two neighborhoods, Briar Creek in east-central Charlotte and Jackson Park in west Charlotte, for the start of the school.

Prayerful conversations and planning continue.

2000

Brookstone files its articles of incorporation on December 29 and assembles a board. The board begins to recruit staff and students with the goal of opening in August 2001; Suzanne Wilson is hired as Brookstone's first employee.

2001

Brookstone's doors open at Briar Creek Baptist Church and Jackson Park Ministries with an initial enrollment of 18 students. The schools offer kindergarten and first grade with a plan to add a grade each year through eighth grade.

2004

Brookstone consolidates and moves to Urban Restoration Ministries off Remount Road in west Charlotte.

2007

Brookstone hosts its first fifth grade graduation with nine students.

2009

Brookstone relocates to Christ Presbyterian Church on Arty Avenue adjacent to Urban Restoration Ministries.

Enrollment grows to 106 children as the school adds new grades. Brookstone now offers kindergarten through fifth grade.

Brookstone moves to Amay James Elementary School, a surplus CMS facility in west Charlotte.

Programming expands to offer middle school, including sixth, seventh, and eighth grade. Brookstone also adds its summer camp and literacy program.

2014

CMS terminates Brookstone's lease at Amay James due to the need for classrooms for CMS students.

Brookstone Schools finds a new home at First Baptist Church in uptown Charlotte.

Brookstone hosts its first eighth grade graduation with eight students.

In its new uptown location, Brookstone expands the volunteer program to include more lunch buddies, classroom assistants, and tutors.

IOWA test scores show Brookstone students performing in the 80th percentile when compared with students of similar economic status across the U.S.

Reflecting on 20 Years of Brookstone

2016

Brookstone launches the first phase of its 'Growth with Excellence' campaign and increases enrollment with the addition of a kindergarten and first grade class.

The school also extends its day to offer after school enrichment and tutoring.

For the first time, two Brookstone graduates qualify for scholarships to independent high schools.

Eight students participate in Solidarity Scholars, a program that provides academic and social support for graduates' upward mobility and path toward graduation and college.

Words from Our Founders

Miller Byne

My prayer is that Brookstone graduates maintain a fidelity to Jesus and the Word of God. Brookstone is affording its students' academic excellence. I trust this will be the cornerstone in developing them into future leaders. As long as Brookstone continues to be faithful to the mission and the vision at its foundation, we know that what is learned here will be passed down for generations.

Mollie Faison

It has taken time for our vision to grow into maturity. We wanted to start a school to educate under-resourced children and help them have a hopeful and productive life. We could never have envisioned how this enterprise would unfold and become the vibrant community it is today. My hope is that Brookstone will continue to be a light on a hill in Charlotte and beyond.

Sam Cornwell

My hope is that Brookstone students continue their academic growth when they move to high school and then college. These students have had an education of academic excellence and training to nurture their faith, growth, and social capital. A Brookstone education is the way forward—the strong foundation our graduates need to become servant leaders of the future.

Debbie Hix

About 20 years ago, I envisioned the powerful impact Brookstone could have in students' lives. Now that this vision has become a reality, I am even more committed to generously contributing to its ongoing support. There are few opportunities in life to have such a meaningful impact for good, and I consider any gift to Brookstone an investment with a high rate of return. I pray that God uses and multiplies these gifts for His glory.

Noah Manyika

In times such as these, I am reminded that today's diligence, faithfulness, and courage are the bricks that build the future. What is ahead is a promise that we can only reach by doing extremely well what needs to be done today. Our future depends on the effort invested now by Brookstone's outstanding community of students, parents, teachers, board members, partners, volunteers, and supporters. This is critically needed in the times we are living in.

Courtenay & Amelia Miller

Brookstone reminds us of the parable of the mustard seed from the Gospels. What started as a casual conversation in 1996 has grown into a beacon of hope for Charlotte. Over the past 20 years, we have seen tremendous successes for the children and families of Brookstone. In reflecting on some of the early years when we sometimes struggled to make payroll to where the school is today, we have been continually amazed at God's faithfulness.

Sara Byne

My hopes for Brookstone are that it has its own facility and remains a catalyst for racial unity, diversity, and leadership, not only in Charlotte but nationally. The formula is in place: godly principles and academic excellence. God has supplied all of Brookstone's needs and will continue to do so as long as those involved keep their focus on what He is doing and join in with Him.

Suzanne Wilson

My hope is that the same passion and energy that drives this wonderful enterprise will endure. If we remain obedient to God, He will guide our future plans as He always has. Years from now, the Brookstone family will still be embracing what's good about cultivating lives, 'sowing seeds of wisdom' into the hearts and minds of urban students in our city. And our results always belong to God.

Carole Ardizzone

The Brookstone adventure is watching God work and seeing the people He chooses to grow Brookstone in a way that serves those previously without a choice. God may have used us to start and run Brookstone, but I can testify that it is all God! That is the awesome part, being part of God's adventure. Because we asked, He created something more wonderful than we could have ever imagined.

Teacher Testimonials

Debi Preston

Debi has been involved in Christian education for more than 30 years, serving in churches as a Christian education director and later working as a teacher and administrator in Christian schools. Debi has taught students in elementary, middle, and high school. She joined our faculty in 2010 and taught fifth through seventh grade for four years before taking the helm as Brookstone Schools' principal in 2014.

"I see my work as service and my day-to-day interactions with students, teachers, and parents as ministry. My zeal for Christ continues to be the driving force behind my passion for furthering academic excellence."

Donna Cloud

Donna joined our faculty in 2008 and has used her gifts in many ways, from helping children with learning needs to assisting teachers with small group instruction. Currently, she teaches Bible to kindergarten, first, and second grade, oversees admissions testing, and serves as a substitute teacher. Donna has a heart for evangelism, education, and children.

"I've seen the transforming love of Christ at work in a very real way in this school. We lay a foundation, 'sowing seeds of wisdom' just like our mission statement says. I want to see students reach their God-given potential and to understand what God's purpose is for their lives."

Ray Kale Jackson

Over a span of 15 years, Ray Kale has served as a Bible teacher at Brookstone for all grades, a teacher assistant, a substitute, and summer school director. Additionally, she has played a strong role in our performing arts, leading the choir and drama productions. Ray Kale has a zeal for God's glory and equipping students for service and leadership.

"I would love to see our graduates play a strong role in moving this kingdom mission forward one day. They could come back and serve as teachers, administrators, board members, and donors. They can make a difference. Be bold for the sake of Christ and his kingdom."

Kathy Acuff

Kathy's teaching career at Brookstone began in 2009. As an educator, Kathy has learned to go the extra mile as it relates to serving children and families.

"I've met some amazing people at Brookstone, heroes who have faced life's challenges head-on with grace and courage. They have taught me that relationships are not dependent upon social status or race; it is about intentionally loving and meeting people right where they are. It has taken me years to understand what it means to love your neighbor as yourself. I'm challenged each day as a teacher to put this into action."

Our Impact Over Time

The name Brookstone comes from the Old Testament story of David and Goliath. The young shepherd David selected five smooth stones from the stream to slay Goliath. Brookstone's founders believed that a sound academic education coupled with a firm faith foundation can be the stones that students use to overcome any of life's obstacles they may face.

Graduate Profile: Karijah Pinkney, Class of 2008

An International Baccalaureate student at East Mecklenburg High School, Karijah excelled in academics and participated in extracurricular activities such as band and track.

She also took part in Junior Division, a program sponsored by the Charlotte Observer that gives students an opportunity to write. This experience ignited in her an interest in journalism. After graduation from high school, she went on to pursue a B.A. in Mass Communication at UNC Pembroke.

At first, Karijah wanted to use her major to work as a cable news anchor. Later her passion switched to radio broadcasting. To gain experience and show potential employers she has what it takes to be a radio personality, Karijah started her own podcast.

When it comes to pursuing a career in broadcasting, Karijah says, "I'm willing to move anywhere where I can get my foot in the door and learn."

Karijah attributes much of her determination from the foundation she received at Brookstone. "Those early years shaped my life in so many ways. Even though I remember being in trouble a lot, the teachers never gave up on me! I felt their love and support. I remember one teacher, in particular, used to encourage my mother often when I got into trouble. She kept reminding her that I would grow out of my rebellious behavior.

That gave my mother hope and encouragement just when she needed it. It's tough to raise your only child as a single mom."

For Karijah, what stands out for her was the support from the staff. "They believed in my potential, and this gave me confidence in myself. The classes were small, so teachers really got to know you. I wasn't just another face.

Also, Christian teaching at Brookstone has anchored my life. When a child has God in their life, it changes everything."

Make a Difference for Brookstone's Students by leaving a legacy

Please consider a planned gift so your values live on through future generations.

Join others in securing Brookstone's long-term future as a Christian institution serving under-resourced students.

Give through three easy options:

Bequests | Retirement Plan Assets | Life Insurance Policies

For more information on Brookstone's Legacy Fund, contact Suzanne Wilson, Director of Advancement.
